FEAR ARABS PLAN GUERRILLA WARFARE (BULLETIN)

TEL AVIV, July 19.—(INS)—U. N. Palestine Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte returned to his headquarters on the island of Rhodes from Lake Success today and was confronted by Israeli and Arab charges that both sides have violated the Holy Land truce.

TEL AVIV, July 19.—Israeli forces launched assaults on Syrian, Iraq, and Arab liberation army strongholds in northern Palestine today after asserting the Arabs violated the United Nations truce.

An Israeli army statement in Haifa said that the Arabs attacked "on almost all sectors of the northern Palestine front" after the truce took effect last night.

The announcement said that Jewish forces are counter-attacking in seven separate sectors in northern Palestine.

The Israeli statement said that Jewish forces in western Galilee have already launched an attack on Arab liberation army bases at Maj. El Kurum, 10 miles east of Acre, and at Tarshisha, seven miles to the north.

Counter-Attacks Made Jewish forces also counter-attacked against the Syrians in three separate sectors—in the northeast corner of Galilee, at the northern tip of the Sea of Galilee, and along the eastern and southern banks of the Sea of Galilee.

Other Israeli detachments moved against Iraqi troops north of Jenin, the northern apex of the Arab triangle, and at Lajjun, 20 miles southeast of Haifa.

Earlier Israeli officials in Tel Aviv had listed two alleged Arab violations of the cease-fire to which Arab league agreed yesterday.

The Israeli asserted that Syrian troops were continuing their attack against the settlement of Mishmar Hayarden, in the Jordan Valley north of the Sea of Galilee, and that Arabs attacked the settlement.

Pa Newc Observes

Work is progressing steadily on erection of the new lighting system at Targart stadium. At least six of the high towers with batteries of lights at the top have been erected.

Another claim to the "first roasting ear of the season" comes from Mrs. Mary Falkovich, Mahoningtown R. D. 7. She reports that she picked about five dozen roasting ears on July 17. The corn was planted April 17 by her nine-year-old son Bobby. She also reports that she has picked four large cabbages.

Sunday afternoon, the lowly sparrows did a good turn in one of Pa Newc's boys' garden on the East Side. The white butterflies have been busy for the past two months, depositing eggs on the cabbage plants, which resulted in quite a number of worms chewing at the cabbage. The little birds lived down among the cabbage heads, and they seemed to enjoy picking out and eating the green worms.

Announcement was made today by the State Highway department through Alfred Martin, county superintendent, that traffic on the New Castle-Ellwood City road, Route 88, will be detoured beginning Wednesday, due to construction work to be started there by the New Castle-Dunelle company.

Believe Backbone Of Armed Communist Rebellion Is Broken By Arrests

A few isolated pockets of rebels still held out, but energetic police action and an appeal by the mayor of Abadia San Salvatore, center of the revolt, slowly wore down Communist resistance.

Meanwhile, the government dispatched strong police and army contingents to Siena, following two incidents caused by Communists during the funeral of two non-Communist police officers murdered at Mount Amiata.

In one incident a bomb was thrown and several shots fired at the funeral cortege from a building housing the Communist Federation of Farm Workers.

The second incident followed when police stormed the building One Communist was killed in the ensuing clash, and police found a sizeable cache of arms and hand grenades hidden in the premises.

By OMER ANDERSON
(U. N. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 19.—The American controlled Berlin radio station RIAS reported today that the Soviets have started to rip up sections of the Berlin-Helmstedt railway line to advance any allied attempt to break their blockade by force.

The report was broadcast coincident with dispatches from Frankfurt saying that American military leaders are conferring with British and French experts on the plan.

Known as "operation covered wagon" the scheme would call for dispatch of an armored supply train or heavily armed convoys through the Soviet zone.

If a train were sent it would be compelled to use the Helmstedt spur which the Russians blocked off to allied traffic weeks ago on the grounds that repairs are needed.

Ripping Up Tracks According to RIAS, sections of track are being ripped up near the chief Soviet checkpoint of Marienborn.

The Russians continued their barrage of threats to jam the allied air corridor through which almost two and a half million Germans living in the western zone of Berlin are being supplied with food, fuel and other necessities.

They repeated their announcement of last week that "unauthorized" Yak fighters planes would take off from air fields at Dallgow, Adenau, Schoenwalde, Brandenburg and Koenigsberg.

All these fields are in a position to interfere with the American and British air channels. The announcement was made today.

Ross declared that the chief executive regards the price bill as extremely important.

Southern Democrats Plan Campaign For New Party Candidates

By JOHN E. HENRY
(U. N. Staff Correspondent)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 19.—Southern Democrats increased the tempo of their campaign today to elect Gov. J. Strom Thurmond to the Presidency as leaders expressed confidence of victory.

The South Carolina Governor and Mississippi Governor Fielding L. Wright, the Dixiecrats' nominee for Vice President on the Jeffersonian Democratic Party ticket, planned to confer at an early date to arrange the details of their campaign tour.

Involved are 127 electoral votes in the eleven states of the Solid South and a determined effort to block the election of either President Truman or New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican standard-bearer, in a battle on the States' Rights issue.

May Be Major Party Party Chairman Walter Billers declared the new party formed after the Southerners bolted the recent Philadelphia convention has "an excellent chance" to become a major political party. He said: "I believe we have an excellent chance to displace the houses of

Margaret L. Henry Home Holds Reunion

Former Residents Return For Picnic And Day Of Fun At The Home

Former residents of the Margaret L. Henry Home for children returned to the home on Sunday for their annual reunion and picnic dinner.

Entertainment in the morning took the form of a show presented by Smokey Naples and his Shady Valley Mountaineers. Master of ceremonies William Gray, Detroit, introduced the guest speaker and program guests.

William J. Gray, who has played Santa at the home for the past 25 years, gave some very interesting and amusing reminiscences about past and present children of the home.

A picnic dinner, with all the picnic trimmings was served to the youngsters and guests.

Mrs. Lida J. Green, matron of the home, was enthroned as "Queen of the day," and presented with an orchid and a gift.

Following the dinner, various kinds of games filled the afternoon hours. A baseball game between the older boys of the home and the former boys resulted in a 15-14 score, in favor of the former boys.

A treasure hunt for the younger children caused quite a bit of excitement as they scurried about the grounds searching for candy and gum which was hidden almost anywhere.

Later in the afternoon the youngsters were again entertained by Smokey Naples and his group.

ture college in Allegheny, N. Y., and after graduating, entered the seminary. He was ordained December 26, 1890, in Buffalo, N. Y., six months before his class was scheduled for ordination.

Following his ordination he was assigned to St. Peter's church in Allegheny, now North Side, Pittsburgh. He was assistant at St. Peter's for three years and then was assigned to Holy Trinity church, Huntingdon, Pa., in 1892.

Later he was transferred to St. James church, Sewickley, Pa., where he served for 14 years. In 1907 he came to St. Mary's as pastor and in 1929 was transferred to St. Peter's as pastor where he wanted to finish his days in the church where he first entered the priesthood.

Observed Golden Jubilee
On December 26, 1939, he celebrated his golden jubilee in the priesthood at which time he was tendered a testimonial dinner and reception by the clergy and laymen of the Pittsburgh district.

Father O'Shea was the third oldest active priest in the Pittsburgh diocese. He was known and loved by thousands and his death will sadden many in New Castle and Lawrence county.

He was an authority on church law and was widely read in history and philosophy. He had a keen sense of humor and his genial wit will be remembered by his friends.

Perhaps the finest monument to his memory will be St. Mary's church in New Castle. This was the crowning effort of his pastorate here. It was a goal he had apparently set when he first took charge in New Castle and the handsome church edifice will stand as a reminder of his faith and works.

His only survivors are nephews and nieces in Connecticut and California. Friends of the Pittsburgh diocese will perform the office of the dead on Thursday at 9:30 a. m. and a solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in Williamsville, Conn., the city to which he came as a small boy.

ment of Maanil, on the edge of the Sharon plain, north of Tel Aviv. The alleged truce violations re-infused Israeli fears that Arab elements opposed to the truce are planning guerrilla warfare.

Israeli officials said that Jewish troops have been instructed to maintain defensive positions and not to take the initiative in fighting until the situation crystallizes.

Attack Repulsed
Israeli sources said that the attack against Maanil was repulsed after an hour's bitter fighting in which the Arabs lost an armored car.

In sharp engagements during the last minutes before the truce became effective last night an Egyptian Spitfire was reported shot down in southern Palestine and Israeli bombers raided Arab formations near Tulkarm, about 25 miles northeast of Tel Aviv.

Israeli officials feared that, despite public announcements by the Arab league that it was bowing to the United Nations' truce ultimatum, anti-truce elements are already organizing an underground campaign.

Reports reaching Tel Aviv said that the Multi of Jerusalem, supported by the governments of Syria and Lebanon, has named Tarek El Afriki, noted Moroccan fighter as commander of Arab irregulars in Palestine.

Syria is known to have held out against the truce ultimatum until the last minute at the Arab league committee's meeting in Lebanon yesterday.

Meanwhile, other dispatches to Tel Aviv told of spontaneous anti-truce demonstrations by Arabs in Baghdad, Beirut, and in Aleppo. Crowds were said to have shouted anti-Arab league slogans and to have demanded continuance of the war against the Jews.

But first reports from the battlefronts said that compliance with the truce in general, Arab legion troops were reported withdrawing back to Trans-Jordan.

Jewish sources absolved the Arab legion from any blame in yesterday's breach of the truce in Jerusalem.

It was said that Egyptian troops have taken over Trans-Jordan positions in the old walled city and other areas of the Holy City, while King Abdullah prepares to rely on negotiations to bring about a just settlement.

The negotiations are expected to begin shortly after U. N. Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte arrives at Rhodes. He is en route there after having received Security Council support for his peace efforts. Arab acceptance of the council's ultimatum, which threatened economic and military sanctions for refusal, was viewed as a signal tribute to the power of the U. N.

Despite similar announcements last week, the allied air shuttle continued without interruption, the only unusual event being jumps by Soviet paratroopers from 3,000-foot altitudes within the corridors.

Meanwhile, reliable reports say that a drastic purge of Communist party leaders and police officials in the Soviet zone is under way.

The reports said that Soviet authorities wish to assure themselves of full civil obedience and discipline in the event of an emergency.

workers have been given leave from their duty to watch the slow march-past of the cortege.

Only 3,000 persons could be invited to the National cemetery's amphitheater. They included members of the cabinet, dignitaries of Congress and the diplomatic corps.

403 general officers of the United States army and air force, and hundreds of other distinguished persons, among them the widows of Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge.

The cemetery services, beginning with the halting of the caquet before the tomb of the unknown soldier of World War I, are to have a quality of simple dignity in keeping with the general's desires.

The rites are to be conducted by Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, and the Very Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the Washington Cathedral.

Committal services will be read at the graveside, and three rifle volleys, a 19-gun artillery salute, and the sounding of "Taps," the soldier's farewell, by an army band, complete the obsequies which mark a nation's sorrow.

10,000 Pass Bier
The army estimated that more than 10,000 persons of whom President Truman was the first, passed by General Pershing's bier in the Capitol rotunda yesterday.

Additional thousands are viewing the remains this morning. Escorted by 12 armored cars, the caquet was taken from Walter Reed hospital, where General Pershing, who was 87 years of age, died last Thursday, to the Capitol shortly after 1 p. m. Sunday.

Thousands who had stood for hours in sweltering heat bowed their heads in tribute as six non-commissioned officers of the Third Infantry regiment bore the Mahogany coffin into the rotunda.

It was a moment of rare and sorrowful drama as the army band, clad in ceremonial gray uniforms ordered by General Pershing when he was the Army Chief of Staff, played the hymn in which he ever found deep consolation—"Nearer My God, To Thee."

Without fanfare, President Truman entered the Capitol just before 2:30 p. m. He was met by the officials who had received the caquet, and by Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Marshall was General Pershing's Chief of Staff in World War I. Of all living military men, he probably was closest to the immortal Black Jack. His faced showed unmistakably his grief at the passing of the man he idolized.

President Truman was accompanied by his Chief of Staff, Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, and other aides, paused for a hushed moment before the caquet, which reposed upon the black-draped catafalque where the body of Abraham Lincoln lay in State after his assassination in 1865.

U. S. AND BRITAIN AGREED ON COURSE IN BERLIN CRISIS

then will start armed trains and trucks rolling from Western Germany to Berlin to break the siege by force.

Two other steps were seen as possibilities:

1. Appeal to the United Nations.
2. Convoking a meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers.

Would Be Reluctant Move
Appeal would be taken to the U. N. only reluctantly, however. Going before the Security Council, the Allies would be faced with the Soviet veto. Or, as an alternative, endless and futile discussion to prevent effective action.

Washington and London also feel that a fresh meeting of the Foreign Ministers Council would prove futile unless backed with some assurance from Moscow that concrete results could be expected.

One factor confusing to Allied officials is the intensity of Soviet military preparations. World Aviation Annual said today that Russia will build 1,000 Superforts modelled after American B-29's in 1949 and jet fighters at the rate of 200 a month.

Military production of goods at this rate, knowing that they would be obsolete in a few years, raise the question whether Moscow will let them grow old of rust.

MARY E. COATES WEDS S. A. JONES

Gaiser officiated at the open church ceremony which took place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Methodist church.

The bride, attractive in a dressmaker suit of white gabardine with matching accessories, was given in marriage by her father. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Delores Russell, Duquesne, Pa., sorority sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a pink gabardine suit, fashioned similarly to that of the bride. Miss Russell wore white accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

Robert Jones acted as best man for his brother, Wallace Coates, the bride's brother, and Robert Layman were ushers.

The ceremony took place before a tastefully decorated altar, banked with palms and ferns, flanked with tapers in candelabra and white gladioli.

Edwin Lewis, organist, offered nuptial music and accompanied Miss Ruth Taggart, of Washington, Pa., sorority sister of the bride, who sang "Yours Is My Heart Alone," "Through the Years" and "Your Song in Paradise."

At the close of the exchange of vows the soloist sang "Wedding Prayer." Following the ceremony, 100 guests were entertained at a reception in the parlors of the church, where the Queen Esther circle served dainty refreshments.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. Ostreicher, INS Foreign Director

Some of the fondest, frolicsome and withal most tragic memories of the war in history were revived in the drawing rooms and "pew" England today with arrival of 60 Superfortresses of the U. S. Air Force to show Russia that the "milk run" to Berlin is no laughing matter.

For it means that the American Air Corps, with all its never-to-be-forgotten "wild blue yonder" and other disregard for dangers and conventions, is back again in its "home."

It is not, of course, the Eighth Air Force of now outmoded Flying Fortresses that ripped and tore across the channel and down the European coast to claw at Hermann Wilhelm Goerring's pride and tear out the heart of Adolf Hitler's empire.

Its personnel are not the same young men with steely eyes who knew that every day might be their last and who mixed their fighting quality with a fatalism that was unique in all the annals of combat.

Some War-Hardened Veterans But there are some war-hardened veterans in the 28th and 307th bomber groups. And shell-shocked or otherwise, they are being welcomed inevitably by the British people as the predecessors were—as a wild rush of unquenchable life, liberty and determination not to be pushed around, regardless of who does the pushing.

England admits with a blush if asked directly that she was rather glad when the Eighth Air Force went home after the war was over.

Its boys had a lot of money to spend in their spare time. They were accustomed to steady amidst Britain's rationed hardships. And they got them. They rode in taxis when Londoners were addressed for bus penalties. They crowded the bars and dance floors.

But this was on their rare furloughs. Most of the time was spent in cold, dark barracks and messes, hastily built in chilly and windy Lincolnshire and the gale-ridden southwest coast.

There they "sweated it out" between bombing and reconnaissance missions, combining a rigid discipline with a wild gaiety in the face of death, achieving what no air force does before and winning for itself the topmost accolade—tribute of valor from the British flag air itself.

The "Eighties" had a way of struggling off its glories. Its modesty and abandon stemmed from the loftiest echelons. Opinions differ, but most correspondents who observed the squadrons in waiting and in action traced its war psychology to Gen. Carl A. Spaatz.

For this redoubtable soldier, on his first official wartime visit to London and mindful of his Teutonic name, signed a registry book and in the space left for title or position simply scribbled the word "spaz."

Spaatz was "Toozey" to officers and men alike—a man who could give the toughest orders with a smile and cry like a baby when a Fortress crew was lost.

Were Menors Lightly To say nothing of men like "Jimmy" Doolittle and Ira Eaker who had to be restrained by Washington from taking bombers out themselves and all the men of upper and lower ranks who com-

There is no reason at all, except for our American softness which we should harbor twenty-seven hundred Russian "diplomatic representatives" whom Rep. Mundt characterizes as "Soviet spies."

There are no restrictions on their activities, while our Nationals in Russia are limited to something less than two hundred, perpetually under scrutiny of the secret police. Common sense would suggest that Washington, having the means to do so, would equalize the quotas and restrictions to meet those of the Soviets. If they would do that, we would have less reason to worry about what "Russian spies" were doing in this nation.

In fact, there is no reason why we should grant a passport to any Russian. Treat them all alike. It has been suggested that the Western Allies—the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, the Netherlands and all other nations included in the category of the so-called Capitalistic nations as distinguished from the Communistic nations, apply sanctions to Russia—sanctions which provide that they will have no dealings whatsoever with Russia as a nation or Russians as citizens of that nation; sell them nothing, have no dealings with them. In other words, put them "into coventry"—and do it now.

bined to make the air force one of the greatest ever produced, rivaled only by Gen. George C. Kenney's "collection of crates" in the Pacific.

Like all great combat units, the Eighth Air Force wore its honors lightly.

Perhaps no one ever added up all the Congressional Medals, Distinguished Flying Crosses and other decorations that its members and squadrons earned and won.

But somehow a typical example was that of a little sergeant whom everyone called "Smitty" who extinguished the flames in a burning B-17 over Europe and brought the ship and its wounded crew back home.

He was awarded the Medal of Honor and all available brass turned out for the ceremony. As all the onlookers almost burst with pride "Smitty" was asked what he would like best as a companion piece to his high honor. He said that all he wanted was to go AWOL without getting caught.

England laid out the welcome mat for the "Smitties" of 1948.

Looking At Life

By Erich Brandels

This being a very hot and sultry day, I shall not go into any philosophical dissertations.

Let me lead off, therefore, with the item that a Boston minister has announced that he has started to grow a Dewey mustache, so that the world may know where he stands.

He has also urged all the male members of his congregation to do likewise and thus show their loyalty.

A good idea to boost a good man—but I really think that one Dewey mustache is all one could stand at one time, this being no reflection at all on the man.

And since this column reaches newspaper readers of all parties, I hereby announce that if I happen to decide to grow a Dewey mustache, I shall also practice the "Missouri Waltz" on the saxophone and never show myself in public without both instruments of loyalty—the mustache and the saxophone.

Since I am now more or less forced to stay close to home, I have taken to the reading of books. You ought to try it some time. There is really a whole lot you can get out of books besides having them on your bookshelf so that people who come to visit you see that you are a man or a woman of literary taste.

Here is a new book called "The Art of Adventure" that has a paragraph I want to quote for you. "You may regard life either as the general adventure or the general accident," says Eric Linkins, the author. "The great accident of life are love and death, and death is compulsory but love arbitrary; and love is the more popular."

Since I promised you that I wouldn't do any philosophizing on a hot day like this, I shall keep my promise.

But I want to give you one thought. If you haven't found any love in your life yet, go out and find it now.

Death will come to you anyway. Love is something you must discover.

The Presidents Future

(By Holmes Alexander)

WASHINGTON—July 19—Ex-presidents, of whom we undoubtedly shall soon have another, are surely the most wretched Americans out of bondage, and it is only with pain and reluctance that the melancholy subject should be mentioned in public print.

But the notion is now being hawked about that Mr. Truman, when he leaves the White House, will become a personage of more political importance than he is now. It has been suggested that the Mecca of out-but-not-down Democrats who will journey there to sit at the feet of the demoted First Citizen, thus to build up their wisdom and resolve for the re-establishment of the smitten party.

Historical Precedent But the historical precedent for such an assumption is almost nil. It is true that, way back, that position of ex-president had some political status, but the case of Mr. Truman does not bear much comparison. Only presidents who voluntarily retire from their high office carry any prestige with them. Thomas Jefferson is the man who set this standard. He really enunciated the two-term principle, although Washington set the example. In retirement at Monticello, Jefferson kept open house for political pilgrims who came to take their bow at the shrine. In fact, these visitors took such advantage of Jefferson's hospitality that they drove him to the edge of bankruptcy. Thirty-odd years later Andrew Jackson set up the same sort of service at his home the Hermitage. It was a poor election season when candidates for great and little offices were not gathering in his smoke house and wine cellar for costly visits.

Set Style Followed In this, he set the style which ex-presidents have most often followed. Only Cleveland managed to make a successful return trip, but many have yearned to do so and several have tried. Both Grant and Theodore Roosevelt were announced candidates for re-election. Hoover let his name be trial-ballooned in 1932, and there is the statement by Bushrod Washington, the General's nephew, that only death prevented the first president from making a run for it in the election of 1800.

The chances are that unless some university (one has already been mentioned by rumor) makes Mr. Truman the offer of its presidency or chair of political science, he will have to think about going back to work. This is a thought dreaded by all politicians and something Mr. Truman hasn't had to fret about in a "coon's age."

Nothing could be more natural than for Mr. Truman, instead of taking a job, to open a front-porch campaign as soon as he gets himself comfortably fitted into an armchair. He may, at first, camouflage his efforts under the guise of party sainthood and elder statesmanship. But it will be a difficult pose to maintain. Immediately it appears that he has ideas for a come-back, he will frighten away the pilgrims if any who come for his blessing. And the moment he lays hands on the easy money of campaign funds, all idea of earning a competitive living will probably seem distasteful and too much of a bore.

It is almost certain that Mr. Truman's old buddies of Capitol Hill will try to revive one of the many schemes for the care and feeding of ex-presidents. But there is little chance of such a measure becoming law and being implemented with an appropriation fund. The country is usually sentimental about its retired chief executives, but not to the extent of re-electing or pensioning them. It seems quite a paradox that the biggest job in the country is the one with the least future.

Contemptuous Performance

By PAUL GALLICO

Cynicism, I suppose, has its place in a realistic world and eventually you get the sentimentality beaten out of you. Nevertheless, I continue to be disturbed when I see political cynicism practiced right out in the open, in broad daylight with no attempt at concealment. Somebody ought to have the decency to draw a curtain over the contempt the average politician has for his own people.

I am thinking particularly of a little by-play that took place last week in Walnut Street, Philadelphia, around the corner from the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, the Convention headquarters.

There, in a succession of windows of what appeared to be a spacious, empty store, were hung a number of large painted signs. They read, "PEOPLE'S CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT."

Only they failed to reveal WHO was the people's choice for the highest office. Obviously, someone had been and now was no more. On display was the corpse of somebody's hopes and no one had the good taste or finer sensibility to cover it up. When something or someone has died out in the street, it is our civilized custom to draw a sheet over the remains until the morgue-wagon drives up.

Never did words so take on the pathetic aspect of rigor mortis. "People's Choice for President." Cold, stiff and lonely.

Hook up the phrase with a name—any name—and it takes on a fine and gallant ring. "Arnold K. Dinklespiel—People's Choice for President." You see how it changes immediately. Even with little faith or imagination you can believe that some of the people—his mother, some of his friends, all of his creditors—might make Mr. Dinklespiel their choice for president. But take away the leadership of a human name and the phrase becomes not only a mockery of the whole political game, but likewise of the dignity of the great mass of faceless ones who are supposed to throw their hats in the air and shout "Huzrah" for any Moses who will rescue them and lead them out of the wilderness.

Well, of course, it turned out that this had been the headquarters of the "Eisenhower for President" boom. When, just before the Democratic Convention got under way, the once and for all pulled the rug out from under the feet of the boys, that did it and they folded up. Merely Removed Name

But instead of shuttering the whole shebang and hanging a piece of crepe on the door in memoriam, the boys merely removed Eisenhower's name from the slogan, decapitated it, as it were, and left the remains quivering there in the public thoroughfare. I thought that was indecent.

Worse, however, was yet to follow. Towards eventide, workmen appeared at the behest of their employers, bearing paint pots and brushes. Leaving the slogan untouched and in full view of the passerby, who mercifully did not linger to see this supreme act of icy cynicism, they painted underneath in red letters the name "Claude Pepper."

And now the signs all read, "People's Choice for President—Claude Pepper." They had brought a new head and grafted it onto the corpse which now wiggled feebly and gratefully. The phrase no longer looked so desperately alone.

Contemptuous Performance But a thinking animal, witnessing this contemptuous performance, could hardly escape its bruising impact. What people? And who dared to shift in a twinkling of an eye and without permission, the love and affection of a large group of Americans for our great war general, Eisenhower, to a southern senator, Pepper? Are we then really such sheep, and can any derisive politician or political group sign us up without notice under any name? Oh, yes, they can. They did.

They used to throw us, the people, a bone from time to time to feed our self-respect. They don't even do that any more in the new politics.

BIBLE THOUGHT

Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them, I will show to whom he is like: He is like a man which built an house and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the flood arose, the house stood fast: but the house which was built upon a rock—Luke 6:47, 48.

Never, it seems, can my battered heart be from something or other to fret about, free.

With one worry over, another comes on. A joy that's enduring is granted to none.

From the crest of delight I am flung in the dumps: Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

I ought to be merry with grandchildren four. You'd think with such treasures my troubles were o'er, But it seems every bill is attended with woe.

And heartache is something we're destined to know. On her left and right, there are two ugly lumps: Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

Since childhood with various ills is beset, Always one or the other some sickness will get. If it isn't the measles that puts one to bed, The chicken pox comes, with the spots flaming red.

And why this has to be, every grandfather stumps. Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

The United Nations crowd has decided to give no attempt to arrive at a plan for atomic control, seeing that those who have not the atomic secret insist on telling those who have it what to do with it.—Somerset, Pa., American.

Not Coming Back If you face this problem tell your child, calmly, as he prepares for bed tonight that you are not coming back. Don't tell him not to call. Just command yourself not to answer his call, unless you feel sure he is in distress. After you have gone through with the usual "ritual," name all the things which have been done. Ask the child if there is anything else, reminding him that you are not coming back. Then go and keep your word.

No Use to try this plan if the child is likely to get out of bed and come to you. First establish control by day. If you have the slightest suspicion of fear in him, leave his door ajar, with a dim light outside it. Once or twice you might well walk by his door, "on an errand," coughing, whistling or singing, to assure him you are around.

But what about his request to go to the toilet? If he is not old enough to go alone take him just once after he has gone to bed. Even at the risk of an "accident" this may be justified, since your

Alabama May Build Farm Show Building

Farmers Of State Farm Show Building Committee To Spread Throughout U. S.

HARRISBURG—Fame of the Pennsylvania Farm Show, which annually attracts more than half a million visitors to its 14 acres of clear space under roof, continues to spread throughout the United States, according to Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture and chairman of the State Farm Show Commission.

During the 1948 Farm Show, individuals or delegations representing agricultural groups in a number of other states visited the exposition for the express purpose of inspecting the buildings and seeing the show in operation. One of these was a group from Alabama where $1,500,000 has been provided for the erection of a coliseum and accessory buildings for holding livestock shows.

The Alabama delegation was so impressed that four members of the Alabama Agricultural Center Board returned to Harrisburg this week for a more detailed inspection of the Pennsylvania Farm Show buildings and equipment.

The Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission, Secretary Horst explained, Members said they are ready to go ahead with the planning and erection of a building similar to the Pennsylvania arena or coliseum. The visitors included Aubrey Fleming, Montgomery, Alabama, assistant to the superintendent of the Alabama Agricultural Center Board; W. P. Brown, Eutaw; John Green, Fausdale and T. M. Weeks, Slocumb, Alabama.

BOARD APPROVES STRIKE

DETROIT, July 19.—(INS)—The UAW-CIO international executive board today approved a strike at the Ford Motor Company to back up union wage demands.

The 25-man board, headed by UAW President Walter P. Reuther, unanimously voted in favor of a walkout but left the date of the strike to the Ford negotiating committee.

The board meeting was called after most of the Ford locals throughout the nation voted in favor of the work stoppage.

SAY WESTERN POWERS SPLIT ON USING FORCE TO BREAK BLOCKADE

from Berlin to lay the U. S. Army plan before top officials.

French sources revealed that they also discussed the general situation at a secret meeting with the French general staff in Paris en route to the United States.

It is reliably reported that both generals will tell Washington officials that differences between American military and diplomatic officials in Berlin over the advisability of the American plan have now been reconciled.

There is now understood to be a general agreement between General Lucius D. Clay, the U. S. occupation chief, and his diplomatic advisers that if the Soviets refuse to lift the blockade, the western powers have no alternative but to risk the use of force in the attempt to establish a corridor to Berlin.

This must be done if the west still wishes to remain in the former German capital.

International News Service also learned that in the event force is used, it probably will take the form of an armed, motorized convoy instead of a train.

A convoy, it is pointed out, could be accompanied by strong mechanized units, including engineers and equipment to bridge the Elbe, and would have a better chance of piercing the Soviet occupation zone.

American officials in Berlin prefer to see such a venture carried out on a tripartite basis, with British and French troops supporting the U. S. Army.

But, while the British may be disposed to agree, the French are most reluctant.

AIRPLANE DERBY PLEASES CROWD

Ralph Knapp of Pittsburgh finished on top, Korda was second and Richard Brown of Meadville was third.

The carbon-dioxide-powered planes saw Frank Helman of Salem, O., the winner with Korda again placing second.

The Optimists wish to extend their thanks to Emery's for the use of the field, to Frank Sargent of the OGD, and to the American Red Cross for maintaining a stand-by first aid station during the day.

Eight planes were lost during the events, all traveling in the direction of New Castle and anyone finding them is requested to contact Optimist President Otto Pearl at the Pennsylvania Power company.

The next big sports event for the club will be their annual "Orange Crate" derby, scheduled again for Labor Day.

WINS LARGE PRIZE

SHREVEPORT, La., July 19.—(INS)—A very calm person is Mrs. S. K. Heard, of Shreveport, even when she wins $17,000 in prizes in a radio show.

The attractive widow was at home last night listening to the "Stop The Music" radio program when she was called on the long distance telephone and asked if she knew what number had just been played.

In a calm voice and without hesitation she told her questioner it was the "World Events March."

May Attempt To Crack Blockade By Use Of Force

FRANKFURT, July 19.—(INS)—High-ranking U. S. army officers said today that the western powers may attempt to crack the Soviet blockade of Berlin by force.

They disclosed that plans are now being drafted which tentatively call for an armored supply train, or heavily armed truck convoys, through the Soviet zone.

The attempt may be made, they said, following dispatch of a virtual ultimatum to the Kremlin warning that the west intends to feed the 2,000,000 Germans in Berlin's western sectors by any means available.

To Call Bluff
An indication that demands that the U. S. call Russia's bluff—even if it means war—have already received approval in Washington is seen in the presence in Britain of the third air division's 56 Superfortresses.

The demands, hitherto confined to staff conferences, were voiced openly by former Maj. Gen. William Donovan, wartime commander of the office of strategic services. Donovan argued that if the Soviets should respond to a show of force by a declaration of war it would show that they never intended to keep the peace anyway.

Army sources said that a stiff note advising the Russians of American intentions of breaking the "siege" of Berlin is now being drafted in Washington and will be sent to London and Paris for their approval.

The French are said to be opposed to a showdown stand on Berlin now, but it is thought they may give way to U. S. insistence.

NAMED AT GENEVA
BEAVER FALLS, July 19.—Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of Geneva college, announced that the board of trustees has appointed Rear Admiral Raymond W. Holsinger, U. S. N. (ret.), as associate professor in the department of engineering. Admiral Holsinger will join the faculty at the start of the fall semester.

This is another forward step resulting from our centennial fund campaign, said Dr. Pearce, "and I am pleased that we have been able to secure a gentleman of such outstanding ability."

Good Attendance Sunday Evening At Outdoor Service

Pittsburgh Men Participate In Fourth In Series Of Downtown Vesper Services

Ideal weather conditions again attracted an exceptionally large audience to the lawn of the First Christian church Sunday evening, for the third in the series of downtown vesper services conducted by churches of New Castle in cooperation with the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union.

The speaker of the hour, John Duff, president of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association and executive member of the State Christian Endeavor Board, spoke of the work being done throughout the state by the Christian Endeavor Union and told of the accomplishments of the State Convention, held recently at Chambersburg, Pa. He related of the many youths who surrendered their lives for full time Christian service.

Directing the song service of the evening, was Charles Davies, of the Point Breeze Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, who also led in the evening prayer. Miss Leora McCombs, director of the program, introduced Miss Ruth Simon, soprano soloist, who was heard in "The Stranger of Galilee" and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Miss Emma Patton presided at the piano.

Rev. A. P. Weaver of the Grace Methodist church, Grove City, will be the next speaker for the fourth in the series of outdoor services, next Sunday evening at the First Christian church.

SPRAY TOMATOES NOW TO CONTROL BLIGHT

Tomato blight, which last year killed many plants before the crop was ripe can be prevented or at least reduced. The most effective way is to keep a covering of copper spray or dust over tomato leaves whenever blight infection may take place. Spraying is more effective, but dusting will help. On leaves, blight causes irregular, dark water soaked spots which enlarge rapidly. On tomatoes, spots are water-soaked and greasy, turning dark green.

Tomatoes should be sprayed every ten days, starting about a month after transplanting. Dusts should be used every week. If blight gets started, spray or dust more often.

Fixed or insoluble copper, used at the manufacturer's direction is suggested for sprays. A dust containing 7 per cent copper should be used when the plants are wet with dew. Be sure to cover both sides of the leaves.

SAGE AND SALT

We hear lots of talk about poultry and eggs.

Turkey and chicken and geese and guinea and duck make good eating.

Sometimes the seasoning or flavoring of turkey makes a big difference.

Sage and pepper and salt in the right amounts help the taste a lot.

There are so many different kinds of meat and fish that most every one may be suited.

The various kinds provide about the same amount of nourishment, vitamins and minerals.

The main difference is in the taste or flavor.

Mom seems to worry some about the price too.

Newspaper Tax Unconstitutional

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 19 — Minnesota's Attorney General has ruled that a proposal to collect a one-cent tax on every copy of daily newspapers published in Minneapolis is unconstitutional.

Alderman George Todd suggested the tax as a means of bringing in an additional $2,000,000 a year to bolster the city's sagging public school fund.

Attorney General J. A. A. Burnquist ruled that the proposal discriminated against publishers of daily newspapers.

He held further that the tax would, in effect, curtail circulation of daily newspapers and thereby infringe on freedom of the press under both the Federal and State constitutions.

Ship Record Number Of 'Flying Saucers'

EAST ALTON, Ill.—The skies over this year's Grand American Handicap trap shoot at Vandalia, O., are going to be filled with more than a million and a half saucers.

This was revealed recently by Colonel Walter F. Siegmund, general sales manager of Olin Industries, Inc.

Col. Siegmund announced that Western Cartridge company—a division of Olin Industries—is shipping a record number of more than 1,500,000 clay targets to the match, scheduled to open August 30 and close August 28.

The targets, which resemble flat saucers as they fly through the air at speeds up to 60 miles per hour, will be thrown aloft by 38 traps, also supplied by Western Cartridge company.

Col. Siegmund said:

"The 1,500,000 clay targets on which America's best shotguns will vie for national records is by far the largest number ever used at the Grand American. Placed side by side, they'd reach 100 miles, or from New York City to a spot 10 miles beyond Philadelphia."

Mexico is the greatest silver producing country in the world.

Stamp To Honor Trio Of Women

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., July 18.
—(INS)—Uncle Sam today honored three women who made history in their fight for equal rights with men.

The United States postoffice issued a three-cent commemorative stamp in honor of Elizabeth Cady
Stanton, Lucretia Mott and Carrie Chapman Catt.

The ceremony at Seneca Falls, scene of the first convention 100 years ago for equal rights for women, marked the first-day issue of the stamp. Portraits of the three grace the stamp.

Elizabeth Stanton and Lucretia
Mott began the equal rights fight in 1848. Years later, Mrs. Catt of New Rochelle took up their work.

Slow At Dressing
A mother writes: "One of our four boys, the seven year old, was becoming increasingly and exasperatingly slow in dressing for school, with the result that I had to rush out of the house at bus time. My husband suggested that instead of saying 'Hurry' to him, we try out your idea of letting him stay home from school and spend a goodly portion of time in a chair.
The results were amazing."

Another mother writes: "Your suggestions are really workable ones. For example, sitting in a chair is most effective. I heartily agree with you on the importance of teaching the child the meaning of 'No' (used seldom), and of teaching him to help at home, reading to the child, and so many other ideas of yours. Having found the modern trend so confusing, I wish to thank you for having reached what I consider a perfect balance between the old-fashioned method of discipline without understanding the child, and the progressive of understanding without discipline."

State Approval
For Dredging Of Creek Received

Council Gets Notice Of Action:
Others Matters Before Council Session

When city council met Monday in the municipal building, receipt of approval from the state water and power resource board, Harrisburg, for the dredging of Neshaug creek south of the South Mill street bridge was reported.

The creek must be dredged because of the proposed new bridge to extend from Grove street extension to the west embankment.

When the work will start isn't known, neither is it known when the actual building of the bridge will start because of the scarcity of steel.

Property Director Joseph D. Alexander submitted a motion which was seconded by Streets Director James Gibson and adopted unanimously, authorizing the legal bureau to prepare a resolution of respect following the death yesterday at St. Peter's, of the Very Rev. Fr. Thomas F. O'Shea, for a long time pastor of St. Mary's church here.

Council also ordered that a contract with Havens & Emerson, Cleveland consulting engineers, be terminated. The contract called for the payment monthly of $150 for an inspection and service at the disposal plant.

Coast Officials
Smash Dope Ring,
Four Being Held

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—(INS)—Los Angeles police declared today they had smashed the west coast division of a vast international dope ring with the arrest of three men and a woman.

The four suspects were Samuel Goldstein, 40, alias Sam Roberts; his wife, Irene, 36, and Charles O'Connor, 41, all of Long Beach, and Michael Tankenson, 42, of Los Angeles.

They were freed on writs of habeas corpus after their arrest and were scheduled to appear Thursday in superior court on suspicion of violating the California narcotics act.

Capt. Lynne White, head of the narcotics squad, said the roundup was the most important in the dope racket here in recent years.

White, working as an undercover agent, allegedly paid Goldstein $11,000 in marked money as the down payment of $40,000 worth of heroin.

THREE PERSONS HELD

CARLISLE, Pa., July 19.—(INS)—Three persons were held today by Cumberland county police for questioning in connection with a fire which police said was started when one of the trio hurled a kerosene lamp at another during a quarrel.

A one-story frame house in Carlisle was destroyed in the resulting fire, police said. The loss was estimated at $1500.

The trio was identified as Blain Gibson, his mother, Mrs. Marion Andrews and Mrs. David Stripling all Negroes.

State Animal Prices
At New High Levels

Prices Near To 287 Per Cent Of Amount Realized During
1908-14 Period

HARRISBURG — In keeping with a national trend, prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for most animals have reached new high levels, advancing the over-all index for all farm products to 287 per cent of its 1908-14 average, the State Department of Agriculture announced today.

There was an advance of seven points during the month ended June 15, according to a Federal-State survey.

Beef cattle, veal calf, lamb and milk cow prices are the highest of record in Pennsylvania, the Department declared. Hog prices top any previous June and wool is the highest since June, 1918. The advance in the meat animal index was 24 points to 384, based on 1908-15 prices averaging 100, officials said.

Prices Pennsylvania farmers pay for labor, machinery, automobiles, feed and other goods and services advanced one point to 251 per cent of the 1908-14 level, the survey disclosed. The purchasing power of the farmer's dollar advanced two cents to $1.14 indicating his dollar now will buy about one-seventh more than in 1908-14.

The poultry and egg index moved up 12 points between May 15 and June 15. Eggs averaged nearly 52 cents a dozen, up 3.6 cents. Live chickens at 37.7 cents a pound were one cent higher. Dairy prices, except milk at $4.90 per hundred pounds wholesale, were lower but not enough to change the index. With the approach of harvest, wheat and barley declined five cents, and rye two cents per bushel. Buckwheat advanced five cents. Corn, oats and apples remained unchanged, but hay went up 80 cents a ton and potatoes five cents per bushel.

As of June 15, milk cows averaged $234 per head. Prices per hundred pound live weight on hogs averaged $34, beef cattle $38, veal calves $30, sheep $10.30 and lambs $24.50. Potatoes averaged $2.06 and apples $2.25 a bushel. Butter dropped one cent to 78 cents a pound and retail milk averaged 16.4 cents a quart.

Estranged Husband Of Late Actress To Seek Estate Share

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—(INS)—Theatrical Producer Horace Schmidlapp announced today in a surprise move that he would fight for a share of the Carole Landis estate.

The late actress' estranged husband notified her attorney, Jerry Glesler, and the Bank of America escrow department that he was demanding a property settlement in anticipation of divorce.

Glesler said Schmidlapp had previously signed an agreement which had disposed of property valued in excess of $100,000.

Miss Landis, however, failed to sign the agreement before she committed suicide by swallowing sleeping pills. Glesler said she had approved the settlement and had promised to sign it one day before her suicide.

Pennsylvania Rural Safety Committee Will Assist In Celebration From July 25 To 31

HARRISBURG, July 19.—State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst has called on 380 agricultural leaders to assist the Pennsylvania Rural Safety Committee in observance of Farm Safety Week, July 25 to 31.

All Pennsylvania agricultural and home economics extension representatives, vocational agriculture and vocational homemaking supervisors, college teachers and many others interested in farm safety practices, have received a special kit of informational aids from the National Safety Council. In offering suggestions for their use, Secretary Horst, who for the third year is State chairman for Farm Safety Week, said the purpose of the campaign is to impress rural people with the increasing necessity for observing safety practices the entire 52 weeks of the year.

The Secretary also called attention to the fact that in recent years many Granges and other local agricultural organizations have made farm safety the main topic for discussion at meetings held before and during Farm Safety Week.

Farm organization officers are advised that a number of 16 mm. motion picture sound films, based on farm safety practices, are available for use at meetings. A list is obtainable from and bookings may be made with Samuel Horst, in charge of Farm Safety Education, Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

"NEW LOOK" BOTTLES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—The future of the round milk bottle in Texas looks as dark as the inside of a refrigerator with the door closed. San Antonio now is the only major city in Texas not using square milk bottles or square paper containers. However, plans are being made for the introduction of 400,000 milk bottles with the "new look." Dairy men say the advantage of the square bottle is that they take less space in trucks, storage vaults, and home refrigerators.

The Giant Despair is, in Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," the monstrous owner of "Doubting Castle," where Christian and Hopeful are temporarily imprisoned.

Known Relative Of
Washington Dies

HARRISONVILLE, Mo., July 19.—(INS)—A 78-year-old woman, said to be George Washington's closest known relative, has died in the Cass County Home near Harrisonville.

She was Miss Minnie Washington, a native of Johnson City, Mo., who lived at Garden City, Mo., until her recent illness which resulted in her death yesterday.

Frederick T. Wilson, Washington genealogy specialist, considered Miss Minnie to be the closest relative among the descendants of the nation's first president, who had no children. Wilson's claims were bolstered by many nationally-known periodicals.

TOO COLD TO SNOW?

MANHATTAN, Kans.—(INS)—Old-time weather forecasters may declare that "it's too cold to snow," but Dr. A. B. Cardwell, head of the physics department at Kansas State college, says it just ain't so. Dr. Cardwell points out that Verkhoyansk, Siberia, one of the coldest spots in the world—with a recorded 94 degrees below zero—has reported snow. However, Dr. Cardwell admits that at temperatures below zero a heavy snowfall is rare.

The Day of Barricades is given to an inscription of the Parisians on May 12, 1858, during the War of the Three Henrys. The name is also given to the inscription against Mazarin in 1648.

CANNIBAL MUSHROOM
DUNKIRK, France.—(INS)—A voracious mushroom, which devours wood and damages all kinds of building materials, is endangering the reconstruction of war-devastated Dunkirk. The growth, called the merule, eats into the heaviest joists and timbers, clings to brick surfaces and gnaws the underpinnings of buildings. Counter-measures, limited thus far to replacing the damaged wood and treating contaminated surfaces with lime, have been largely ineffective.

Assessments Are Being Raised In New Castle

Assessors in the City of New Castle are making the triennial assessment for 1949-50-51, according to George Patterson, chief of the assessors. He said today that assessments generally are being raised in an effort to determine the actual value of properties. Relative to the work, Patterson said that the League of Third Class Cities magazine explains the plan which James Beadel, another assessor, and he are following.

It follows: "Since the passage of the amended act pertaining to assessments in 1939, the assessor as well as many property owners, had wondered what effect the new law would have on assessments. Some court decisions have been handed down since that time, and this column, will quote some of those decisions. However, the intent of the amendment should first be examined.

"The old law pertaining to assessments reads: '... in all cases he (the assessor) shall value, or cause to be valued, the property at such sums as the same would in his judgment, bring at a fair public sale, thereof.'"

The new law was amended to read: "In all cases he shall value, or cause to be valued, the property at the actual value thereof. In arriving at such value, the price at which any property would separately bona fide sell, or the price at which any property may actually have been sold shall be controlling. Instead, such a selling price, estimated or actual, shall be subject to revision by increase to accomplish equalization with other similar property within the taxing district."

In order to get an idea as to the intent of the Legislature, Journal of April 17, 1939, which contains discussions on the then proposed amendment is enlightening on the intent of the new law.

Assemblyman Webster, sponsor of the amendment, when asked by Assemblyman H. B. Cohen what effect passage of the bill would have upon the budgets of municipalities replied, "it stabilizes budgets." When asked if the bill would allow an increase in valuations to the extent that the borrowing capacity of the municipities will also be increased, Mr. Webster said, "I do not understand it that way."

Fair Prices In Normal Times

"Does this bill in any manner decrease the income that the municipalities will receive from taxes on real estate?" to which Mr. Webster replied, "That is not my understanding."

"Just what does the bill do?" Mr. Cohen asked Mr. Webster, to which the latter replied, "As I understand it, this means, if in a block of houses that are valued at approximately, we will say, $10,000, one should be sold at a distress sale, we will say, for $5,000, the valuation of that house for taxing purposes cannot be reduced disproportionately with the other houses in that section."

The foregoing dialogue apparently clears up the intent of the amended act.

Today's situation is the opposite of what it was in 1939. Today, instead of having distress sales, "we have inflation sales" the magazine reports.

The courts in determining actual value, have construed it to mean much the same as "fair market value," defining it to mean neither panic value, or auction value, speculative value, nor a value fixed by depressed or inflated prices. (Mr. Patterson reports assessments here are being made at what would be a fair price sale in normal times).

Relative to a court decision, the magazine reports Judge Henningson of Lehigh County, in an appeal on assessments in the City of Allentown, does not attach any special significance to the language in the Act of 1939, supra.

It will be interesting to delve further into court opinions on assessments, the magazine reports, adding, "it would be of value to the profession to study court opinions on tax appeals."

In view of City Council's proposed intention to adopt a Wage Tax Ordinance here, they propose that the millage be cut, probably five or six mills. Enabling legislation paving the way for the wage tax ordinance already has been adopted by Council. The big points the public is interested in are what is to be levied by the new tax ordinance, and what millage is to be imposed.

Weekend Boom In Train Ticket Sales To Beat Fare Boost

Railroad ticket offices experienced a sudden boom in business over the week end. Cause of this sudden boom was a 17 per cent increase in fares, effective Sunday at midnight.

It was reported from the ticket office of the Baltimore and Ohio lines in New Castle that most of the tickets bought on Saturday and Sunday were to Pittsburgh, and for long trips, to the coast or to New York.

Business was estimated to be about 10 times greater on Saturday, and about five times greater on Sunday in the Pennsylvania ticket office. Most of their sales were reported to be for long trips also.

While no estimate was given in the percentage of increase in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie ticket office, it was reported that ticket sales had received quite a rush. While some tickets were bought for long trips, most of the increased sales were for short trips. It was also reported that persons buying the tickets did not buy large quantities of tickets, only two or three tickets per person.

Since one-way tickets can be used for a year in advance, and round-trip tickets for 90 days, some travelers did stock up on their tickets.

Commuters received a lucky break, for they were not affected by the 17 per cent fare increase.

Glenshaw Youth Killed In Crash

Ray Watkins, 22, Union City, a passenger in the car, is in Oil City hospital with a fractured shoulder blade, lacerations of the head and left forearm, and is somewhat improved, according to hospital reports.

Brothers Visit After 17 Years

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Bailey have returned to their home in Waverly, Kan., after an extended visit at the home of the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bailey, 307 Fairfield avenue. It was the first meeting of the two brothers in over 17 years.

While in New Castle Mr. and Mrs. Bailey also visited Mr. Bailey's sister, Mrs. Jenny Rawlins, of Moody avenue, and his nephew, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Bailey, Garfield avenue. They visited with other relatives in the vicinity and many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bailey escorted their guests on a tour of the local and surrounding communities, among which they made a tour of the Shenango Pottery, which they found very interesting, and a trip to Pymatuning Dam.

Completing a very enjoyable visit here, they are motoring home.

GARDEN NOTES

Disease and insect control is especially effective in the summer months. Regular spraying and dusting in the flower garden is very important to keep down such insects as aphids and red spider, and to control mildews and other fungi.

When needed, dahlias and gladiolus should have a thorough soaking with water. It is important to give dahlias a thorough watering, as they are usually set very deep.

If feeding of peonies was neglected last month, it is not too late to feed them now. Sprinkle two trowelfuls of superphosphate around each plant and scratch in thoroughly. After applying this fertilizer, the plants should be watered liberally for it is now that they are forming their buds for another year and they need a generous supply of moisture.

July and August are the best months to sow the biennials, such as Canterbury bells, sweet williams, hollyhocks, violas and pansies. A cold-frame or an open bed can be used for pots or flats. Sow thinly about one-half inch deep in drills six inches apart. Later the young plants may be transplanted farther apart for development.

Should the heads of early cabbage show signs of bursting before it is time to harvest them, bend the plants over. This will break some of their feeding roots and check development of the heads.

Sixty Bombers Reach Britain; Start 'Missions'

By TALBOT HOOD
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 19.—Sixty U. S. airforce Superfortresses and six C-54 Skymasters prepared today for mock bombing missions from their "temporary" British bases.

The missions are widely regarded as a "show of force" in the face of the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

The U. S. air armada was brought up to its full strength with the arrival of the last two B-29's at Scampton air base today after a flight from Newfoundland.

Its presence in England heightened speculation that the present Berlin crisis may lead to armed conflict between the Soviets and the west.

Idle To Pretend
Even the London Daily Herald, Labor party newspaper, commented:

"It is idle to pretend that the B-29's arrival is unconnected with the tension between the Soviets and the western powers."

And among Britons generally there was a "I-have-been-here-before" feeling that reminded all of 1933. Former war buddies take leave from each other with, "be seeing you back in the barracks soon."

Reports that the B-29's are "fully operational" even to bearing machine gun belts loaded with ammunition spread pessimism among war-weary Britons.

Not To Be Bullied
But there was general agreement with the Daily Herald's editorial that "no one this side of the iron curtain wants war, but, equally, no one here is prepared to be bullied in defiance of agreements."

The London Daily Mail editorialist today said the Soviets may have decided to plunge the world into a new war, on the theory that Communism will be the only winner.

It said: "It has been hitherto assumed that Russia does not want war. But this assumption would be proved wrong if she closed our air corridors to Berlin by force. The Russian command is always believed that there is on their side... but recent events may have caused them to change their minds."

July 4 Weekend Deaths Increase

HARRISBURG.—Death took two more victims over the Fourth of July week and on Pennsylvania rural roads than during a comparable period last year when eight met death, according to an announcement by Col. C. M. Wilhelm, State Police Commissioner.

Rural highway fatalities claimed four lives on the third of July, four on the fourth, and two on the fifth, for a total of ten rural deaths this year.

Last year when the holiday fell on Friday, there were three rural deaths on that day, with five on the fifth and none on the sixth.

Due to the holiday falling on Sunday this year and being observed on Monday, the State Police figures cover what is considered a comparable period.

MYSTERY PLANE LANDS IN AZORES

Fantastic Odyssey Of Flying Mystery Is Revealed As Plane Reaches Azores

NEW YORK, July 19.—(INS)—In one of the most fantastic odysseys in flying history, the mysterious B-17 bomber, which left Westchester County, N. Y., airport a week ago apparently for Palestine, is safe in the Azores today.

How the Flying Fortress, with nine aboard, could have completed the trip with an absolute minimum of gas had authorities puzzled.

None of the nine airmen carries passports, and a Portuguese visa is necessary for entry into the Azores.

But the "wrong-way" flight from Halifax, N. S., succeeded although the big plane carried less than 2,000 gallons of gas.

This amount was considered just enough for a 814-hour flight from Halifax back to Westchester airport.

Canadian authorities had first impounded the plane when it arrived in Halifax, then released it on payment of a $100 fine on condition it be flown back to the U. S.

Took Off For U. S.

But the Pilot, Irvin R. Schindler of Miami, and his eight crewmen had other ideas. After Halifax authorities drained off 1,200 gallons of the ship's 3,000 gallons of gas, Schindler took off presumably for Westchester or another U. S. field.

Once in the air, the plane swerved and roared 2,035 miles to Santa Maria, southernmost of the Azores.

Besides Schindler, the crew includes two men who gave their names as Phil Mark and Victor Carlo, of Brooklyn, and Gus Brown of the Bronx. Authorities believe the names are fictitious.

All eight passengers carry revolvers and a State Department official in Washington pointed out the men have neither an export license for the arms or for the plane either.

The next move, authorities said, seems to be up to Portuguese officials.

Scattered throughout the state of Idaho, from Bear Lake, in the extreme southeastern corner, to Priest Lake in the north, are more than 1,400 bodies of water, from the size of a pool to lakes on which steamers navigate.

Strike Action At Ford Plant May Be Approved

DETROIT, July 19.—(INS)—The UAW-CIO executive board was expected to approve strike action for 116,000 Ford Motor Co. workers today.

The UAW-CIO's largest local, Ford 600 at the River Rouge plant, approved a strike in a near-unanimous vote yesterday. Only 81 of the 4,000 workers who turned out for the special poll voted against a strike.

The numbers of voters represented only 8 per cent of the local's 53,000 members.

Kenneth Bannon, UAW Ford director, reported a 98 per cent endorsement of a Ford walkout throughout the nation.

However, the possibility of averting a strike appeared bright. Both the union and company have indicated a willingness to resume wage negotiations, with each apparently waiting for the other to make the first move.

KANSAS 'ZUIDER' MILL

WAMEGO, Kans.—(INS)—A 40-foot red sandstone mill still stands at a farm site near Wamego, although it hasn't been used for about 50 years. The mill, an exact replica of a Zuidere Zee windmill, was erected about 70 years ago by a Hollander who had migrated to this country. Its six huge vanes almost swept the ground for more than 30 years. When it gave way to modern machine-operated mills, owners of the structure gave it to the city of Wamego.

Third Atom Bomb, Vessel Disappear

NEW YORK, July 19.—(INS)—Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias has disclosed what he termed a "high level secret"—the disappearance of a naval vessel with a third atomic bomb during the Pacific war.

The retired naval officer made the startling revelation during his "secret mission" program over the Mutual Broadcasting System last night. Zacharias said:

"In 1945 we dropped two atomic bombs—one at Hiroshima and the other at Nagasaki. Only high ranking military and naval authorities knew we had a third atom bomb."

"The third bomb was on board a naval vessel headed for Tinian and disappeared with the bomb on board."

Berlin Picture Given President Truman By Aides

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(INS)—With the Berlin blockade situation becoming more serious, President Truman today received a briefing from his top State department and military leaders.

Mr. Truman conferred for 30 minutes with Secretary of State Marshall, presumably getting a last minute report on the Berlin picture.

Shortly afterward, the President met with Defense Secretary Forrestal, Undersecretary of State Lovett, Army Secretary Royall and Army Undersecretary Draper. Draper has just returned from Berlin and reportedly brought back for Washington consideration the latest plans for action to break the Russian blockade.

No Conference With Soviet While Blockade Exists

LONDON, July 18.—(INS)—The British Foreign Office repudiated today any suggestion made in the "London News" that the United States, Great Britain and France might meet with the Soviet Union to discuss the Berlin blockade.

A spokesman said: "The British Government considers that the only way to break the blockade is by continuing to supply the city by air."

The spokesman said that no new negotiations are being held at the moment, but that the British Government is in active contact with the United States and France.

The spokesman said that the British Government is in active contact with the United States and France.

Governor Thurmond Is Silent On Plans

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 18.—(INS)—A. J. Brown, Thurmond, governor of South Carolina and Democratic presidential nominee, today remained silent on plans for his campaign.

The governor told newsmen, however, that "this is the south's chance to show leaders of the national Democratic party that we can't be misled around."

Gov. Thurmond returned to Columbia late last night from the state's campaign convention in Birmingham, Ala., where he was designated the presidential nominee of the southern Democrats.

He said his provisional nomination came as a "complete surprise" to him. Thurmond expressed a conviction that the south would carry its fight for states' rights to a "successful conclusion."

Foreign Ministers Of Five Powers In Meeting At Hague

Convene To 'Establish Peace In Europe' Amid Talk Of Berlin 'War' Crisis

THE HAGUE, July 18.—(INS)—Foreign ministers of the five powers of western Europe met today to convene at The Hague today to "establish peace in Europe" amid talk that war might develop from the East-West crisis in Berlin.

The Soviet blockade of the former German capital was reported to be high on the agenda of the conference, which will discuss progress made in joint defense plans.

Dutch Foreign Minister Baron Van Oosterhout set the keynote for the meeting in a speech welcoming the delegates and asking them "to receive with both hands the opportunity of making the western union the practical means of establishing peace in Europe."

The foreign ministers of the five nations—Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—met in a small room at the Netherlands foreign office. But reports said that more important discussions would take place when British Foreign Minister Bevin meets privately with French Foreign Minister Bidault to talk over an American plan to break the blockade of Berlin by force.

On the agenda of the conference are reports of the Washington negotiations between the five powers and Canada and the United States. These negotiations, held on U. S. initiative, are expected to have a vital bearing on the policy the five European states take in the current Berlin crisis.

Relief Rolls In State Shrinking

HARRISBURG, July 19.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's shrinking relief rolls today prompted the state public assistance department to predict that "present economic conditions favor a continuance of the trend throughout the summer."

During the week ended July 10, the DPA added the rolls slid under the 300,000 person mark for the first time since mid-January. A drop of 1764 persons pegged the load at 299,016 recipients.

The DPA announced that expenditures during June amounted to approximately $8,306,000 of which $2,812,000 was contributed by the Federal government.

The average number of relief recipients last month was approximately the same as a similar month a year ago, the department added. The high-point this year was the 311,000-person load in April.

Around Hollywood

By RUTH BRIGHAM
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—(INS)—Hollywood's No. 1 movie fan—Van Johnson—scored those Hollywood stars "who draw handsome checks while looking down their noses at the movie industry" today.

The handsome Van, who remains a favorite of the bobby-soxers although he's had to move over and make room for newcomers, declared:

"I'm the No. 1 movie fan in Hollywood. I can't remember when I wasn't movie struck. As a kid in Newport, R. I., I beat it to the movies as soon as my dad handed over my 25 cents a week allowance."

Just Likes Movies
"Today I am more fortunate. I see five, and sometimes six, pictures a week."

"When I'm working on a movie, it's even more. Because I try to study the past works of the director. In my latest, 'Command Decision', that was no easy job. It was directed by Sam Wood, who has been directing for over 30 years, beginning with Wallace Reid."

Van's favorite actresses are Joan Crawford and Greta Garbo. He has remained faithful to Joan throughout the years, and still looks forward to the return of Garbo to the screen.

Thrilled By Garbo
He's so thrilled by Garbo, Van, imagine that—is too timid to ask for her autograph.

He says:
"I was tempted to ask her for it when I finally met her. That memorable event in my life occurred less than two years ago, when the actress stopped by to deliver a Christmas gift to a friend at whose home I happened to be dining."

"But I was too awed to ask for the autograph I'd always wanted."

SCARED BY CAMERAS

Maj. Walter G. "Bobcat" Smith, faced many a machine gun during the war as executive officer of the sixth armored division under Gen. Patton, but he was a lot more frightened by a camera last week.

Smith, who operates a cattle ranch near Sulphur, Okla., played a bit part in Walter Wanger's "Tulsa," which just returned from the Oklahoma location.

Says he, "It's much easier to face a machine gun than a glamour girl."

Even such as Susan Hayward, huh?

PLAYER THAT COUNTS

Every columnist in town is claiming what they call the "scoop" that Dore Schary would go to MGM as production chief.

Wonder how many movie fans know, or care? Most of them, admittedly, don't know the difference between a producer and a director.

To them the player is the thing.

FIREMEN'S FAIR ENDS WITH BLAZE

WHITEMARSH TOWNSHIP, Pa., July 19.—(INS)—The Spring Mill fire company's annual fair ended—of all things—with a fire.

A disgruntled patron set fire to a tent as an angry crowd protested that a side show proprietor was "cutting the show short."

Anthony Lammando, 30, of Bridgeport, was treated for a head injury sustained during the crowd's demonstration. The tent blaze was extinguished easily by the firemen-hosts.

Three Killed In Lancaster Area Highway Crashes

Wheeling, W. Va., Man, Wife And Granddaughter Victims, Two Injured

LANCASTER, Pa., July 19.—Two highway accidents which claimed the lives of three persons and resulted in injuries to 20 others near Lancaster Sunday were described today by State police as among the worst in eastern Pennsylvania traffic history.

The dead were Anton A. Biebersen, 63, of Wheeling, W. Va., his wife Adelaide, 63, and their six-year-old granddaughter, Floy Cook.

Biebersen was driving east on the Lincoln highway when his car was struck by a truck carrying 17 people from the Philadelphia area en route to a picnic at White Hill near Harrisburg. The injured were taken to Lancaster hospitals for treatment.

Truck Driver Held
Foster Johnson, of Philadelphia, driver of the truck, was held by State police pending a hearing today.

Also injured when the Biebersen car was hit by the skidding truck were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Cook, parents of the dead child, and a 13-year-old daughter, Catherine. They were treated at a hospital for rib injuries, lacerations and shock.

Shortly after the accident, a car driven by Luther W. Lipford, 30, of West Chester, crashed into a parked automobile about 200 yards from the scene of the first accident. He and his wife and daughter were treated at Lancaster general hospital for minor injuries.

Lipford was accused by State police of reckless driving.

State Improves More Than 100 Miles Of Road

Highways Department Shows Good Progress On Rural Roads Despite Wet Spring

HARRISBURG—Despite a wet spring the Department of Highways today reported that in the first five months of this year work has been completed on the improvement of more than 100 miles of road.

Reports just tabulated show 70.2 miles of highway improvements were completed up to May 31 by department forces. The remainder of the construction was completed under contract.

Stabilization of earth roads accounted for the largest mileage of improvements completed by department forces. Between January 1 and May 31, the department reported completion of 46.06 miles of stabilized road surface.

There were 9.02 miles of new construction completed up to the close of the fiscal year. Reconstruction accounted for 3.44 miles. The remainder of the improvements completed by department forces was 1.45 miles of widening and 56 of a mile of resurfacing.

Contractors had completed 30.21 miles of new highway by the end of May. During the first two weeks of June contractors had finished another 28.35 miles. As of June 15, the department had 438.06 miles of road under contract which was uncompleted. At mid-June in 1947 contractors had completed only 21.5 miles of new highway.

Since the middle of June the department awarded new contracts covering near 34 miles of highway at a cost of approximately $4,600,000.

Reports Pilotless Plane Takes Off

SEATTLE, July 19.—(INS)—The CAA warned today that a pilotless plane was in flight between Auburn, Wash., and Mount Rainier and may endanger commercial and private aircraft.

The runaway plane, flying without lights, had a four-hour supply of gas when it took to the air as mechanic Elwyn Barton was putting it in a hangar.

CAA authorities said the plane was an Aeronca Champion and is expected to land early today somewhere near Mount Rainier. Authorities estimated the gas supply would run out at any moment.

Barton told authorities he had set the prop of the plane at a horizontal angle and was wheeling the plane toward its hangar when the engine suddenly caught. The plane broke away and began spinning around the airfield. He suffered an arm injury.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

A FULL FOUR WEEKS of wild turkey, ringneck pheasant, rabbit and squirrel hunting, including Saturdays were declared by the state game commission at Harrisburg from November 1 through November 27, with a curtailed season in 15 counties and a closed season in 24. The commission also decided to permit woodchuck shooting during the November period, with a daily bag limit of five, then close it until July 1949, when the regular season fixed by law—July 1 to September 30, becomes effective. The current "chuck" season closed last September 30. The grouse season will be held to one week, November 1 through November 6, to enable birds to profit still further from a reportedly improved supply. Bobwhite quail and Hungarian partridges were cut from a month to two weeks, November 1 through November 13, primarily to give Bobwhites a chance to re-establish themselves. Raccoon hunting and trapping will run simultaneously, opening November 1, with a bag of five daily. Bag limits for grouse, quail, Hungarian partridges, wild turkeys, pheasants, rabbits, squirrels and hares remain the same as last year. Red squirrels may be hunted in unlimited numbers from November 1 to September, 1949. The deer season will run from November 15 through November 30 and deer hunters will be permitted to hunt only antlered bucks from November 29 through December 11. There will be no antlerless deer season.

George Stelman, former president of the Lawrence County Sportsman's Association, writing from Erie, says "I read in Here & There about the poor fishing in Canada. You don't have to go to Canada to get fish. Come to Lake Erie. The fishermen have had their best fishing in 25 years, according to old-timers. I know of one party (18) one week ago Saturday night who took a grand total of 428 Blue Pike, and at 90 cents per pound, this helps the family budget. The party was from Meadville. The large boats coming from Canada report that fishing on the Canadian side isn't worth writing home about. On the other side, the fishing is 100 per cent. I have been here three weeks and expect to spend another 10 days before I have enough fishing. Yellow Pike and Small-Mouth Bass are taking night-crawlers on a June bug spinner and I have caught both while trolling.

OTHER NEWS OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—It will be interesting to see whether Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft will be able to fall in line with the policies of the man who defeated him for the Republican presidential nomination and become Tom Dewey's majority leader in the Senate—if Dewey is elected.

As of now, Taft doesn't want that post. It would involve going all out for the administration program. However, Taft must give up his all-powerful Senate GOP policy committee chairmanship this year following custom.

This would leave him only the chairmanship of the GOP conference—a relatively unimportant post. Or he could devote his major interest to his present leadership of the joint congressional economic committee. Through this job he could wield a heavy hand on domestic legislation.

The economic committee job promises the Ohio senator his most weighty lever on Dewey. Through it he could voice his opinions on the high cost of living, government economy, taxes, housing and other key domestic issues which could make a president in 1952.

If Taft should change his mind and go for the majority leadership spot—recent through retirement of Senator Wallace H. White (R), Maine—he would have a fight on his hands. Senator Kenneth Wherry (R), Nebraska, who acted as majority kingpin through most of the 80th Congress, likes the job, means to keep it, won't stop down possibly simply to maintain harmony in Republican Senate ranks.

PAY FOR WHAT WE MAKE
 Labor is pushing hard these days for automatic pay boosts each year based on grounds of rising productivity.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, has long fought for this goal. He made important progress in the new 1948 contract with General Motors.

G.M. granted a continuing wage increase of three cents an hour annually to reward employees for the yearly rise in man-hour output which the company figures at about two per cent.

Improved productive efficiency results from technological developments, better management and other factors. Not all industries can show such gains, however.

Productivity rose almost 30 per cent in the three years following World War I, but the record is not as good at this time.

Industry officials attribute the present lag to more indirect (subsidized) labor, operation of machines at full capacity with little chance to try improvements and poor distribution of essential materials.

RETURN TO HARMONY?

A Republican landslide this November, sweeping the Dewey-Warren ticket and GOP congressional candidates into office, would treat the nation to a sight not seen since the very early days of the Truman administration—co-operation between the White House and Congress.

Some Washington observers who are cool toward the GOP, are willing to admit that political accord between the White House and Capitol Hill—where Republican accord—would be better than the present bickering and name calling.

They point out that now is the time for unity, and that a unity which includes some ideas and policies you don't like is better than none at all.

POLICY MAKERS AND DEWEY

Only a few top State department policy makers are worried that a Republican victory in November will sweep them out.

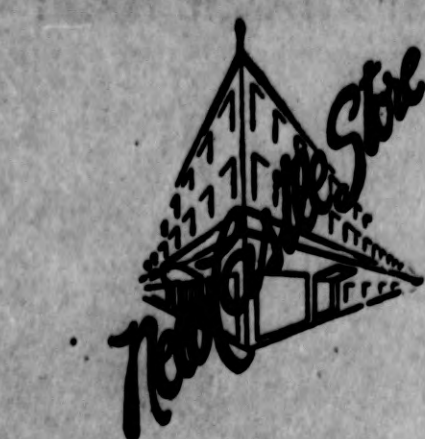

Most of them would not mind being retired inasmuch as they are working at a financial sacrifice. Men like Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett, and Assistant Secretary Thorp already have businesses of their own to which they would gladly return.

Those high-minded individuals who work for the State department because they believe in present policy are more assured now that both major GOP candidates are advocates of the bi-partisan policy as developed during and since the war.

CUCUMBER DRESSING

Peel half a small cucumber, cut down the middle and scrape out the seeds. Chop up very fine. This should make about a half a cup. Mix into one cup mayonnaise. Add a few grains of cayenne pepper. This is an especially good dressing on cold fish.

Lincoln, England,
 Again 'Invaded'
 By Yank Forces

LINCOLN, Eng., July 19.—(INS)—The second "Yank invasion" of quiet Lincolnshire, England, had its "H-hour" Saturday.

With the arrival of the first of the 60 U. S. air force B-29 Superfortresses which will be based at three British airfields, pub keepers looked uneasily at their beer stocks and bobbies prepared for a recurrence of "right-side" drivers. At Scampton, six miles north of Lincoln, where the 28th bomber group is to be stationed, 100 WAF—women auxiliaries to the RAF—have been assigned as cooks, waitresses, phone operators and orderlies for the Yanks.

Many There Before

For many of the Americans, it will be a renewal of old acquaintances. The majority of the personnel of the 28th group are World War II veterans, many of whom served in Britain.

The city of Lincoln is dusting off its "Stars and Stripes" and local RAF officers' and sergeants messes have planned dances to celebrate the arrival of the American airmen.

The British hope to make up in hospitality what will be lacking in food and other rations. Unlike the "palmy" war days when American troops had their own well-stocked PX's and mess halls, the B-29 men will get British RAF food—which is very similar to civilian "austerity" rations.

However, there was no stinting on the first morning's breakfast.

A typical GI reaction was that of Cpl. Marshall B. Johnson of Raleigh, N. C., who, after a meal of cereal, tomatoes, sausages, eggs, marmalade, toast and coffee, said: "Not bad chow."

If your kitchen stove stands near a window, keep the window open a trifle. This provides escape for steam and moisture and keeps the kitchen paint from getting soiled so soon.

Attacks Locking
 Convention Hall
 As Truman Speaks

HARRISBURG, July 19.—(INS)—Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, of Johnstown, Democratic leader in the state house of representatives, was bitterly critical today of Secret Service agents who locked the doors at Convention Hall last week when President Truman arrived.

Andrews blamed Secret Service agents for the closed door order but said the idea "may have been conceived in the mind of some rattle-brained politician who had the doors locked to make certain there was no mass movement to walk out when President Truman walked in."

He urged that the agents responsible for the order "be disciplined publicly". Approximately 15,000 persons were locked in the Philadelphia hall, he claimed.

APPLES FARE BETTER
 COWICHE, Wash.—Apples have a better chance of getting to the teacher without bruises these days than they did when dad was a boy. Automatic apple lumpers tested here handle 300 to 500 more boxes a day than was possible by hand and cut bruises 20 to 25 per cent. Silica, soda ash, limestone and sand are the essential ingredients of glass wool.
